

abundance

Community Life Engaged

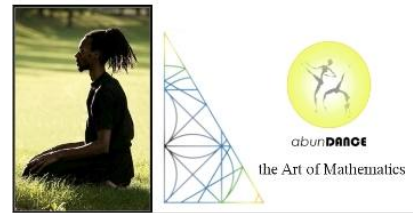

Dear community builders, respectful greetings.

More creativity in Lambeth provisions

Learning in abundance - We are pleased to be able to announce the birth of Abundance Centres (Lambeth) Development Trust, which has successfully formed as a cooperative of like-minded family and community developing organisations and professionals.

You may know that Lambeth Council is now in a second phase of its Co-operative Council programme. The basic idea is that it has been foreseen that the Council will not be able to continue funding the provisions of adventure playgrounds, one o'clock clubs and youth centres in the near years to come in the ways that they have done in the past. Therefore this programme has been set-up to, in principle, give community stakeholders an opportunity to lead or co-operate in the future of these provisions.

Our Trust's service idea revolves around the development of education, health and social networking. As a starting point we have developed models around creativity, cross-curricular learning and unified knowledge that specifically enable and enrich the learning of science and maths through the arts and intelligent play. Our models have been applied at early years, primary, secondary, adventure scheme, youth centre levels and beyond. All to great effect. The project is focused on the communities of the London Borough of Lambeth and naturally we care for the immediately surrounding boroughs too.

maths taught through dance

